WINDUP AT COLOMA.

The Joint Political Discussion There Last Night.

COLOMA, Nov. 3.—The joint discussion by O. S. McGowan in behalf of silver and L. T. Moore in behalf of gold in Wimer's opera house last night called out a crowd that packed the building to the walls. The demerits of the sister metals were presented in a masterly manner by both champions, a decision in favor of either, however, so far as the audience was concerned, being left to individual preferences. No judges were appointed to weigh and decide upon points scored, nor was any vote taken. This gave the rooters and retainers of the precious pair an opportunity to vociferously declare themselves and immediately upon adjournment and for nearly an hour afterwards the opera house and streets sang with a pandemonium of shouts for Bryan and for McKinley. A pretty feature of the evening was a presentation of an American flag to the silver champion by a young lady dressed in the Goddess of Liberty with the following words:

"My countrymen! I come to represent your kindred spirits in the land of light, who gave and bid you still be eloquent. For law and liberty, for truth and right; for freedom and rights, for justice and equality; for international honor, that those principles, however minute in however great, and as their true embodiment I bring: This is the beatitude of the brave and free; its faith and hope abounding angelism; its preservation beneath to these:

A wire has been stretched from the W. & M. railroad station to Wimer's opera house, where election returns will be received. An entertaining program of noisy applause has been prepared by both political parties and a good time is expected.

The day is nearly faultless and a large vote is being polled.

Mrs. Phoebe Byers, relic of Martin Byers, died at her late home in Bainbridge Monday morning, November 2, and will be buried in the cemetery there ton' crow, November 4. Mrs. Byers was the mother of Mrs. George E. Stewart, and has been a resident of that township more than sixty years. The funeral sermon will be preached by the Rev. Christian Summers of Vandalia, Ind., a pastor of the Mennonite church, of which Mrs. Byers was a member.

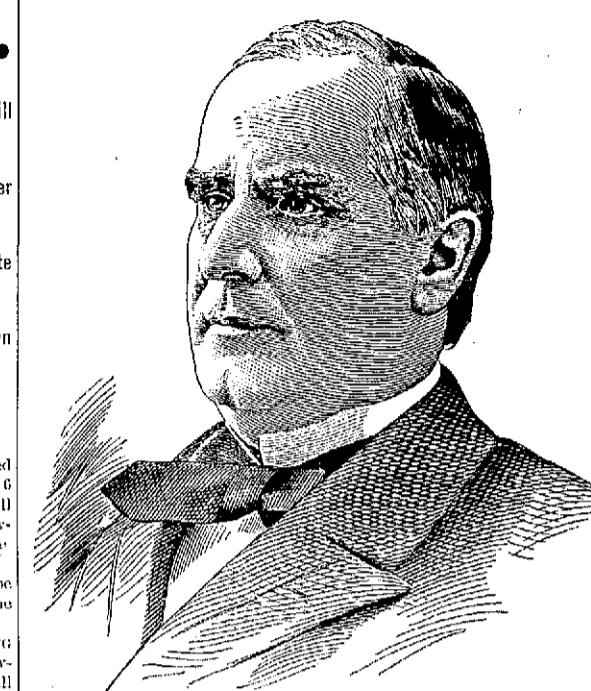

The Crickets Meet.

Hall & Nichols Will Let the People Know Whose Elected.

Hall & Nichols, the enterprising druggists have arranged signals whereby the public from all party of the city whether Bryan or McKinley is elected at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.

If McKinley, is elected three mammoth five-pound sky rockets will be fired in the air and if Bryan is elected 10 big rockets will be shot off. These rockets will be sent off at 6 o'clock sharp, if the result is known at that time, if not, just as soon as possible.

WATCH THE ROCKETS

It Occurred in Bainbridge Township Sunday.

COLOMA, Nov. 3.—While moving from the house of Jacob Fruehauf to the M. E. church in Bainbridge Sunday at the head of the funeral procession, bearing the remains of Miss Lizzie Hoss, the team driven by the Rev. E. Ruth, became unmanageable and a runaway, creating considerable excitement. Dashing between a tree and a fence, the horses cleared themselves from the carriage and dragged the reverend gentleman to the ground, but fortunately without sufficient injury to prevent his taking his place again at the head of the procession which he led to the church on foot, and from which he preached the funeral sermon. The horses which are a spirited and well matched pair of cream well known throughout this section, ran madly through the crowd of people already gathered in front of the church, and were finally captured in a cornfield some eighty rods or more from where they started.

Fifty-nine new names were added to the poll-list in this, the first precinct of Waternyel township Saturday. Twenty names were removed from the list, leaving a gain of 39 names and a total of 447.

WATERVLIET.

WATERVLIET, Oct. 3. Luke Eagon is very ill with scarlet fever.... A. B. Taft has moved his stock of furniture into the building recently vacated by Thos. Bickley.... Hitching posts, fences, rails, gates, etc., were quickly exchanged to different places Saturday night, rendering us that Hallswell's team has moved into E. W. Leland's tenement house south of town.... Alex McAlpine, P. Howard and W. G. Thomas will start north on a hunting trip Wednesday.... Frank Barden is laid up with a boil on his hand....

McKinley is the winner. And black Hamm will be the leader. In that great procession there.

May the hand of our "Great Father" lead this battle for the right. And the question when it's settled Be forever settled right.

ELECTION RETURNS.

They Will Be Received By Long Distance Telephone and Telegraph.

RESULT EXPECTED BY 1 O'CLOCK

There Will Be Half a Dozen Places Where the Late News Will Be Received.

There will be half a dozen places open all night to receive the election returns. The Miami club has had a telephone placed in their club rooms. The Young Men's Christian Association have rented Conkey's hall and will furnish both telegraph and long distance telephone returns. This entertainment will be quite novel as the returns will be thrown on a large canvas by the aid of Dr. Edgecumbe's powerful magic lantern. While waiting for the returns Dr. Edgecumbe will exhibit historical and other views.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will serve refreshments in the rear of the hall.

Lowe & Rouse have put in a long distance telephone and switchboard which will be a permanent fixture but will be first used tonight. This will enable all the news between Chicago and Detroit to be given in this city at an early hour.

Full returns will also be received at the republican headquarters and at the hotel Benton where the silver men will gather and at THE NEWS office.

The Crickete Meet,

The Crickete held their first meeting this season at Mrs. Christopher's on Columbus Avenue. President Bishop presided. Quotations on autumn were given in response to roll call. After the reading of the minutes the work of the winter for '96-7 was reviewed by Mrs. Harper. Mrs. Harper also led the discussion on current events which was generally participated in and extracts from Chicago papers furnished by Mrs. May Lander were also read. The business meeting which followed resulted in the election of Mrs. Plimpton as second vice president and Mrs. Christopher as corresponding secretary. Three new members joined the society.

The meeting was closed by a piano solo by Mrs. Christopher. The club will meet during the month of November on Mondays, and was invited to gather at Mrs. Graves' next week.

THE EVENING NEWS will print a morning edition delivered to the homes of readers by 6 o'clock tomorrow morning. This edition will contain complete election returns in the national, state and congressional districts. An extra evening edition will be printed tomorrow afternoon. This will be sold on the streets but will not be delivered to subscribers.

NOW FOR BUSINESS.

The campaign is now over with the exception of counting the votes and announcing the result. This NEWS believes that the returns will show the election of Major McKinley.

There are, however, many unknown factors in the election which has just closed and if Bryan is elected it will be no greater surprise than history records in American politics. The fact that the day has been one of sunshine favors Bryan, for the former vote, heretofore republican, this year furnishes the silver men their hope of success. But speculation now is idle for guesses will soon give place to the returns.

Whoever is elected there is bound to be a quick return of better times. The people who have been picturing distress if the opposition won will now realize that both parties are composed of American citizens and the prosperity of the country will be the end toward which every one will work.

The energy which has been devoted to politics will now be devoted to business.

Make Your Workmen Comfortable.

A manufacturer, in gossiping about the best ways of handling workmen, says that the nature of the floor of the shop has a great deal to do with the amount of work that is got out of the operative staff. He was once struck by the difference in the apparent activity of two sets of men working on similar jobs at the vis in two rooms of a large shop. One was in an old building and the other was in one of recent construction. In the former the men stood easily and naturally at their work and showed no symptoms of a hankering for a seat on the bench, while in the latter the men were shifting their weight from one foot to the other, throwing one leg upon the bench at every opportunity and showing every evidence of foot fatigue. The superintendent guessed that the difference was due to the floors upon which the two gangs of men were standing. In the old shop the floor was of wood, springy to a certain extent and a poor conductor of heat. In the new shop it was of the most beautiful concrete, an excellent conductor of heat from the feet of the workman and as unyielding as granite rock. So the benches in the new shop were raised a couple of inches and each man was given a platform of wood that rested on two crosspieces at the end and had a slight spring to it. The foot weariness disappeared almost at once, and no further trouble was experienced. Which shows that the prettiest floor is not always the best for the workmen.—Exchange.

A French Girl at Play.

Among us it is not only a woman's duty to please; she does it by instinct. The thinnest girls do it unconsciously. Just watch them as they walk in the avenues of our public parks. They have all the unstudied grace and ease of real ladies and, indeed, they fully suspect that upstaged eyes watch them in the mirror, for coquetry, which is much more subtle and more delicate than flirtation—less direct, too, in its aim—is innate with them. They are not ambitious of winning the admiration of boys of their own age. They look down with disdain on such admirers. They aspire to please big people. In their intercourse with little playmates there is a great deal of ceremony. Nothing could be more amusing than the manner of a little girl who, having come to the conclusion by the general appearance of another little girl that she is worthy of the honor she is about to confer on her, finally asks her to play at birds and seek. If some brave young person walked up to a group of players with the time honored phrase "Mademoiselle, will you allow me to play with you?" a sharp and comprehensive glance at once decides either the reserve or the warmth of the reply. Matters would hardly take a different form in a drawing room in the case of a more serious introduction. The gestures, the bows, the little looks, the smiles are copies of their mamma's, and yet they are all perfectly natural in the sense that they are merely following their own nature without a trace of self consciousness that "puts on air" of any kind. This Anglo-Saxon quality of self consciousness in both its good and bad points is incompatible with the French temperament.—Th. Bentzon in Century.

In Guernsey.

Guernsey is well enough if you stick fast to the coast line, especially in the south, and are not worried by unscrupulous ambitions. Raised fortifications stud the rocks and邀to retrospective. Montauk Point bay is the noblest neck of cliff and reef scenery combined in all the islands, and the water line leading to it was charming even in winter, with a glaze of thin ice over its unfathomable depths of mud. The islanders are really soft spoken people, well disposed toward the stranger, whether or not he is interested in early potatoes. I wonder how many times I received the answer, "Yes, please, sir," when I asked if I was going right for my destination. The little girls, though seldom beautiful, courtesy beautifully, and the little boys do not—in winter, at all events—pester for peace. I like the goosebumps to the interior roads, and the more when they glow with blossom and hide the glass houses behind them. I like also to see the calm eyed Alderney cows at tether in the very small meadows allotted to them, with magpies flitting over their horns from hedge row to hedge row. And, best of all, I like the view of Herm, Jethon, Sark and their satellite reefs as I saw them from my hotel window in St. Peter's port at sunrise or so.—Gentlemen's Magazine.

Grind's Last "Casta Diva."

Mme. Grisi made mistakes in her declining years. Unlike Jenny Lind, she never knew when to leave off. She retired, but found life insipid. The fact is, unlike Mario, she was quite an empty headed person, with no purpose or interests apart from the stage or any power of occupying herself. Grisi came back to the concert room when far too lame to attempt the stage. I heard her sing at the Crystal Palace somewhere in the sixties. She was born in 1812 and died in 1889. She imprudently tried "Casta Diva," her great song in "Norma," but reached her high note with a painful effort. The old men who flocked to hear her and remembered her triumphs in the thirties and forties sat crying like children. They fancied they still heard the goddess of the stage when Rabini, Taglioni, Mario and Lablache had lifted the Italian school under Rossini, Bellini, Donizetti and Verdi to the highest pitch of intoxicating popularity, but to my taste poor Grisi's "Casta Diva" was a piteous exhibition.—Contemporary Review.

The Gallery Silenced.

It was not through her singing that the late Jenny Hill made her first success on the variety stage. It was through her splendid power of repartee. She was making her first appearance at a small east end (London) music hall. A rude man in the gallery interrupted and the chairman was powerless to quiet him. Then Jenny Hill stepped forward. "Let me speak to him," she said, and, stepping to the front of the stage, she talked to him for half an hour. She called him every abusive name in a singularly rich vocabulary and compared him to every offensive thing she could think of. The audience cheered her to the echo, and the man slunk out of the room. That was the beginning of the fame of Jenny Hill.—Boston Transcript.

An Ink For Ticket Writing.

Make ink for ticket writing thus: Take 4 ounces of white wax and 1½ ounces of white soap. Melt, and when well amalgamated add of laupbake half an ounce. Mix well, heat strongly and add of shellac an ounce. Again heat it; mix it well, cool and bottle for use. You will find that with this ink lines may be drawn from the finest to the fullest without danger of its spreading.

Stockings.

It takes about 4,000,000 pairs of stockings, at a cost of $2,000,000, to cover the feet of the women and girls in New York city for one year, according to some statistics furnished by the New York World. These, if fastened together, would make a row about 2,000 miles long—longer than the Atlantic cable.

American Matters and Gossip.

Gibson carefully studied for himself the questions at issue in the American war. From Israel Mauduit, the agent of Massachusetts Bay, and from Governor Hutchinson he gathered material for forming an independent judgment. "I think," he says, "I have sucked them very dry, and if my confidence was equal to my eloquence, and my eloquence to my knowledge, perhaps I might venture no very intolerable speech." It is curious to note in his letters the apathy of parliament on the subject. "In this season and on Amherst," he writes in May, 1776, "the Archangel Gabriel would not be heard." His own opinion was, on several points, adverse to the policy of the government, which, except on one occasion, he steadily supported. He was one of those independent men who attach themselves to political leaders rather than to political principles. For Lord North he felt a warm affection, and throughout voted with him, sometimes against his better judgment.

His speech would probably have been silver, his silence was certainly golden. In 1778 he was appointed a commissioner of trade and plantations, with a salary of £750 a year. Fox believed that he had been bribed by office and expressed the belief in the lines:

King George, in a flight
Lost Gibson should write
The story of England's disgrace,
Thought no way so sure
Hiss pen to score
As to give the historian place.

Gibson held the appointment till the abolition of the office in 1782.—Nineteenth Century.

A City of Bridges.

Few people realize that Chicago today possesses more bridges in number than any other city in America. Collectively they constitute a greater total length in miles than any other system. The extent of a single span of one of the swing bridges is greater than that of any other bridge. Modern bridge construction is embodied in and illustrated with a greater variety of perfected mechanical devices in Chicago than is the case in any other city in the world.

Standing out like monuments erected to engineering skill, to a people's enterprise, and to unswerving perfection, these bridges present a greater variety of admirable features and are evidences of better workmanship than can be found in the best of all the cities in either the old or the new world.

Chicago has 68 bridges spanning the river and its tributaries at every point where commerce and traffic demand a passageway. There are 48 systems of viaducts, which bespeak as many safeguards for the people against the dangers of railhead transportation.

Represented among these 68 bridges is to be found every description of swing or drawbridge which the world possesses today that is of practical value. They constitute within a radius of a few miles a congeries of mechanical devices which captivate the spectator with their perfection and diversity of arrangements.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A Dog Makes Sunday Visits.

A bright terrier dog owned at the American Hotel, Pittsfield, Mass., is known as the Maplewood as Billy. The dog every Sunday morning goes to the Maplewood, stays and stays in the cashier's office, but never goes away from the American on other days unless taken to the Maplewood. Sundays, as regularly as that day comes, in the season, the animal takes up his early march for the other house, remains all day and returns. This has done for the past few seasons, and so regularly that the guests at the Maplewood have become familiar with him and his peculiarities. Now they are asking how the dog knows the difference between Sunday and other days, as his visits are made before the church bells begin to ring.—Boston Herald.

Noise and Numbers.

A Yankee, upon eating his first meal of frogs' legs, asked the hotel proprietor how he accounted for the high price. He was told it was on account of the scarcity of the product. "Not at all," said the Yankee. "I can get you 1,000,000." "A million?" gasped the bonifaceman. "I should like to engage to find you a profitable market if you can produce them." "Why, I can get them surely." At night the Yank came back with eight pairs and declared the trick off. "I thought you said you knew where you could get 1,000,000," said boniface. "Well, to tell you the truth," explained the other, "I formed my judgment of the number by the noise."—San Francisco Argonaut.

A Peculiar Feeling.

The sensation of homesickness has been variously described, but never more graphically than by a little girl who, miles away from home and mamma, sat heavy eyed and silent at a hotel table. "Aren't you hungry, dear?" asked her aunt, with whom she was traveling. "No." "Does your head ache?" "No." "What is the matter?" The child lay quivering, and she said in a tone to grieve the heart, "I'm seasick for home."—London Tit-Bits.

Lost Its Head.

Winks—I tell you, there is something about the possession of sovereign power that gives a man confidence. History shows that all monarchs have been calm and self posse.

Junks—I don't know about that. You will remember that Charles I of England lost his head at a very important period in his career.—New York Tribune.

HOW TO GET RETURNS.

Where and When the News of McKinley's Majorities May be Learned Tonight.

BY PHONE AND TELEGRAPH

Extensive Arrangements Have Been Made To Get the Welcome News Tonight.

It is probably a matter of interest for people to know how they may conveniently receive election returns direct from all parts of the country. There has never been a time in the history of the city when such complete arrangements have been made to get direct returns and convey them to the people.

Returns will be received at the republican headquarters on Shipstreet. Telegraph and telephone connections will be made with the building and the returns will come direct. The McKinley club will go to considerable expense for this luxury and it will probably be appreciated.

The telephone connections, as has been described in these columns before will be made with all parts of the country. The telephone service will gather the votes from the precincts in the county and the same will be received by county chairman Woodruff at the court house. The court house will therefore be the place to get the official returns from the county.

Tel-phone patrons may learn the latest results by merely ringing up "central" any time tonight. The telephone service will be complete and the company will furnish the news to its patrons. The company will probably also have a bulletin board in front of the office.

A party of citizens has donated a sufficient amount to get a Western Union wire and those returns will be received at Reynolds & Dahlke's drug store.

Returns will be received at the Young Men's Christian League rooms during the course of a reception that will be held there tonight.

The Commercial club will have a special wire and a telegraph in the club rooms for the use exclusively of the gentlemen of the club. The newspapers will be put bright and early in the morning with complete reports and that is the way the news will be received in St. Joseph.

SETTLED.

John Lynch and Phil Daley Decide the Election.

John V. Lynch and Phil Daley are both respected fruit growers and have farms adjacent to the city limits. They are both well to do and are good fathers and kind husbands. They always used to be the very best of friends, politically and otherwise. But the campaign of 1890 has ended a life long friendship.

Mr. Lynch and his father-in-law, Captain Botham, were driving along the street and passed Daley's house. Daley was standing out in front taking the air.

"Take that picture of Brine out or you winter," yelled Lynch.

"Oil do nothing of the sort," was the reply, "but if you will get out of that wagon oil tick ye."

Now Mr. Lynch could hardly swallow that insinuation against the ability that every Irishman prides himself upon, and climbed down out of the wagon.

"Ye will hell-take that," yelled Mr. Lynch, and he plucked his old friend Daley in the jaw.

Daley took it and passed back with a left hand under Lynch's chin. Then came a rough and tumble, first one on top, then the other. A great political question was being settled and no one interfered. The air was full of whisks and cuss words. The ground for several yards around was thoroughly rolled down. The fight stopped when both of the old gentlemen were ready to give up, and the silver question still an issue.

THE CURTAIN DROPS.

Upon the Republican Campaign of 1896 At the Academy Last Night.

A REGULAR LOVE FEAST.

Some Fine Speaking and Singing Meeting at "Sandy Hook."

The Academy of Music was packed to the doors again last night. It was the last act in the local political drama and a large crowd assembled to see the curtain fall. It was a grand republican body and excelled in enthusiasm the memorable opening of the campaign in September. The people when they entered the hall were each presented with an American flag and the flags were prominent in the demonstrations of enthusiasm called forth by the speakers of the evening.

President E. P. Clarke, of the McKinley and Hobart club, called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock and introduced the glee club, consisting of Messmes Wilson, Holmer, Rice and Holland, Miss Merchant, Messrs. R. Gates Rice, Nelson C. Rice, Edward S. Kelley. "The Star Spangled Banner" was sung by Mrs. Wilson and chorus and aroused every particle of patriotic enthusiasm in the audience and as the words of the chorus were being sung, a perfect sea of flags beat time and hundreds of throats took up the familiar words of the chorus and the love fest began in the very beginning of the meeting.

Hon. E. L. Kingsland was elected president of the club but resigned a few days later, saying that he thought it to be to the best interests of the organization to have a younger and more active member of the club for its presiding officer. The club reluctantly accepted the resignation and elected Ernest P. Clark, the county school commissioner, president. The campaign shortly afterwards opened in dead earnest and the new president of the club proved himself to be the right man in the right place.

Leonard E. Merchant, secretary of the club, has performed his duties to the letter and has been an indefatigable worker in the cause. Alderman John A. Freeling, treasurer of the club, has proven himself to be hustler in every sense of the word. Through his earnest solicitation, the campaign fund grew to a large amount and the club was able to procure all of the implements of war necessary to a campaign. A marching club of about 100 native members was organized, and under Captain A. L. Church became a great feature of the local campaign.

W. B. Church, the busso, sang a very fine solo after which Miss Jessie Stone, St. Joseph's little speaker, was introduced and spoke "A Story of Cleveland Times." Edward S. Kelley sang a comic campaign song, "Billy Boy," which touched a responsive chord in the audience and as the words of the chorus were being sung, a perfect sea of flags beat time and hundreds of throats took up the familiar words of the chorus and the love fest began in the very beginning of the meeting.

Hon. George M. Valentine, of Benton Harbor, the candidate for prosecuting attorney, was introduced and made an eloquent appeal to voters, urging them to do the right thing at today's election. He did not dwelt particularly upon the issues of the campaign as they have been so thoroughly gone over during the fight. His speech was received with great enthusiasm and he took his seat amid a deafening storm of applause and cheers.

Then the popular prosecuting attorney, Hon. N. A. Hamilton, was introduced and he entertained the crowd for a half hour with the most enthusiastic speech he ever made in his life. He did not go into the issues of the campaign but dwelt particularly upon the duty of republicans at today's election. Several times he was unable to continue on account of applause and his eloquence awakened such enthusiasm that it took ten minutes for it to quiet down after he took his seat.

Prof. Nix and George F. Happ made short speeches, after which the mournful meeting closed.

August Kerwin addressed a large body of Germans at the Brighton pavilion, "Sandy Hook." It was an enthusiastic meeting. The drum corps furnished music.

Daley took it and passed back with a left hand under Lynch's chin. Then came a rough and tumble, first one on top, then the other. A great political question was being settled and no one interfered. The telephone service will gather the votes from the precincts in the county and the same will be received by county chairman Wood ruff at the court house. The court house will therefore be the place to get the official returns from the county.

Telephone patrons may learn the latest results by merely ringing up "central" any time tonight. The telephone service will be complete and the company will furnish the news to its patrons. The company will probably also have a bulletin board in front of the office.

A party of citizens has donated a sufficient amount to get a Western Union wire and these returns will be received at Reynolds & Dahlke's drug store.

Returns will be received at the Young Men's Christian League rooms during the course of a reception that will be held there tonight.

The Commercial club will have a special wire and a ticker in the club rooms for the use exclusively of the gentlemen of the club. The newspapers will be out bright and early in the morning with complete reports and that is the way the news will be received in St. Joseph.

SETTLED.

John Lynch and Phil Daley Decide the Election.

John V. Lynch and Phil Daley are both respected fruit growers and have farms adjacent to the city limits. They are both well to do and are good fathers and kind husbands. They always used to be the very best of friends, politically and otherwise. But the campaign of 1896 has ended a life long friendship.

Mr. Lynch and his father-in-law, Captain Botham, were driving along the street and passed Daley's house. Daley was standing out in front taking the air.

"Take that picture of Brine out er yer winder," yelled Lynch.

"Oil do nothing of the sort," was the reply, "but if ye will get out er that wagon oil tick ye."

Now Mr. Lynch could hardly swallow that insinuation against the ability that every Irishman prides himself upon, and climbed down out of the wagon.

"Ye will hell-take that," yelled Mr. Lynch, and he plucked his old friend Daley in the jaw.

Daley took it and passed back with a left bender under Lynch's chin. Then came a rough and tumble, first one on top, then the other. A great political question was being solved and no one interfered. The air was full of whisks and cuss words. The ground for several yards around was thoroughly rolled down. The fight stopped when both of the old gentlemen were ready to give up, and the silver question still an issue.

THE CURTAIN DROPS.

Upon the Republican Campaign of 1896 At the Academy Last Night.

A REGULAR LOVE FEAST.

Some Fine Speaking and Singing-Meeting at "Sandy Hook."

The Academy of Music was packed to the doors again last night. It was the last act in the local political drama and a large crowd assembled to see the curtain fall. It was a grand republican body and excelled in enthusiasm the memorable opening of the campaign in September. The people when they entered the hall were each presented with an American flag and the flags were prominent in the demonstrations of enthusiasm called forth by the speakers of the evening.

President E. P. Clarke, of the McKinley and Hobart club, called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock and introduced the glee club, consisting of Mesdames Wilson, Helmer, Rice and Holland, Miss Merchant, Messrs. R. Gates Rice, Nelson C. Rice, Edward S. Kelley, "The Star Spangled Banner" was sung by Mrs. Wilson and chorus and aroused every particle of patriotic enthusiasm in the audience and as the words of the chorus were being sung, a perfect sea of flags beat time and hundreds of throats took up the familiar words of the chorus and the love feast began in the very beginning of the meeting.

Hon. E. L. Kingland was elected president of the club but resigned a few days later, saying that he thought it to be to the best interests of the organization to have a younger and more active member of the club for its presiding officer. The club reluctantly accepted the resignation and elected Ernest P. Clark, the county school commissioner, president. The campaign shortly afterwards opened in dead earnest and the new president of the club himself to be the right man in the right place.

Leonard E. Merchant, secretary of the club, has performed his duties to the letter and has been an indefatigable worker in the cause. Alderman John A. Freitag, treasurer of the club, has proven himself to be a hustler in every sense of the word. Through his earnest solicitation, the campaign fund grew to a large amount and the club was able to procure all of the implements of war necessary to a campaign. A marching club of about 100 active members was organized, and under Captain A. L. Church became a great feature of the local campaign.

W. B. Church, the basso, sang a very fine solo after which Miss Jessie Stone, St. Joseph's little speaker, was introduced and spoke "A Story of Cleveland Times." Edward S. Kelley sang a comic campaign song, "Billy Boy," which touched a responsive chord in the audience and was accorded an appreciative reception.

Then the popular prosecuting attorney, Hon. N. A. Hamilton, was introduced and entertained the crowd for a half hour with the most enthusiastic speech he ever made in his life. He did not go into the issues of the campaign but dwelt particularly upon the duty of republicans at today's election. Several times he was unable to continue on account of applause and his eloquence awakened such enthusiasm that it took ten minutes for it to quiet down after he took his seat.

Prof. Nix and George F. Happ made short speeches, after which the memorable meeting closed.

August Kernwiss addressed a large body of Germans at the Boughton pavilion, "Sandy Hook." It was an enthusiastic meeting. The drum corps furnished music.

GASOLINE

Killed Jacob Miller, Near Warren, Mich.

WARREN, Nov. 3—Jacob Miller, two miles south of here, got up early to build the fire and used gasoline to hurry things up. The can exploded, completely saturating Miller. He ran out of doors screaming. His wife thought he was being robbed and began looking for a club.

WORK WELL DONE.

The Officers of the Local McKinley Club Have Been Very Successful.

SOME GRAND MASS MEETINGS.

Short Review of the Republican Campaign as It Has Been Carried On in St. Joseph.

Although the local McKinley and Hobart club was not formed until late in the campaign, it has done a mammoth work and a power of good for the national, state and county cause. There is not a more energetic club in Michigan. The speakers have all been of the best and not one single detail of a successful campaign omitted.

This year marked a change in the ranks of the local republican party.

While heretofore there has always been more or less difficulty in reconciling the old wheel horses and the young leaders of the party to each other. But this year it was seen at the very beginning that all differences between individuals in the party would be buried under the unanimous efforts in the interests of McKinley and prosperity.

Four years ago some of the erstwhile republicans voted for a change. They got it and they have had nothing but change ever since—small change. Those local republicans who four years ago voted for a change all dropped back into the old party line at the very beginning of the campaign and subscribed their names to the constitution of the local McKinley club which started life with a membership of 200.

Hon. E. L. Kingland was elected president of the club but resigned a few days later, saying that he thought it to be to the best interests of the organization to have a younger and more active member of the club for its presiding officer. The club reluctantly accepted the resignation and elected Ernest P. Clark, the county school commissioner, president.

COLORS IN BATTLE.

Why the Soldiers in the English Army Are Arrayed in Scarlet.

The scarlet uniform of the British infantry has been greatly criticized in recent years, chiefly on the ground that it exposes the men to needless danger by disclosing their whereabouts to the enemy. The objection taken to the scarlet, however, is groundless and scientific reasons are given why the prevailing color is for all purposes the most suitable that could be selected.

In the first place, scarlet affords the best attainable protection against the extremes of heat and cold to which soldiers are liable to be exposed. The darker the color protecting a warm body the more rapidly radiation proceeds. White would be the best color to reflect radiation to a minimum, but white is barred by other considerations, as are also all the grays. Scarlet or red comes next between white and black or other dark colors, while with reference to protection from the sun scarlet takes a far higher place than any of the blues, greens or drabs and other shades often used for military clothing.

Yellow and orange are excluded because these colors are particularly conspicuous at a long distance. Although scarlet or red is more conspicuous than gray, when the sun shines directly on the troops it blurs on the sight and is consequently more difficult to hit.

With existing rifles the actual result of a fight is usually decided at a distance just outside the effective range of the weapons. This distance lies between 600 and 800 yards. Lesser than that it is impossible to close without replying to the enemy's fire, and as soon as the return fire whistles about the defenders' heads the possibility of aiming rapidly and accurately decreases.

Therefore, from this point of view, it is unimportant whether the object to be hit is conspicuous or not, but from a moral point of view it is a serious consideration. Within 700 yards each subsequent advance is conditioned by the superiority already achieved, the defenders are shaken, the time for countering heads is past, and the mental impression conveyed by the sight of the assaulting troops becomes the main point.

It is a distinct advantage that men should bulk large in the decisive stages of an encounter, and there is no color which enables them to do this so effectively as scarlet. On the whole, therefore, every scientific consideration justifies the retention of scarlet as the best uniform for our troops.—Strand Magazine.

Russian Administrative Machine.

The czar may possess qualities and virtues which, under a happier system, might bear fruit in the prosperity of his people, but he, like his subjects, is crushed by the administrative machine, from which, in Russia, there is no escape. A new czar has as little initiative and as much at the mercy of permanent officials as the chief of an English department reading in the house of commons the elaborate evasions of his dead predecessor. If he were really a despot, it might be well; for a benevolent despot is an excellent thing, but he is no more than the irresponsible head of an evil system which is founded on repression, ignorance, darkness and slavery. And songs like "There where rhyme or rhythm hath led us" are fit for the ink pot seats, Absurd unto itself in many faults.

Yet such a charge is too retrograde to meet in a newspaper.

Pray, Sir, if you will let me in on what you know of what has been written about the czar's administration, I will be glad to publish it.
